Please join Paulette and others for this follow-up to the message she presented to Interfaith on Sunday, November 20, 2020. Paulette will lead this extended session to explore the connections between spirituality and service more deeply.

We learn and process through stories. So, please plan to make a cup of tea and settle in for stories, accompanied by photos, and conversation. I will invite your thoughts and perspectives throughout our conversation.

To begin, I will share some thoughts on how service is part of our spiritual journey. Knowing that we are all connected, we know that when there is pain or inequity in the world, that pain reverberates to all of us. Similarly, joy comes and reverberates when we serve each other.

Next, I will share more of my photos and stories of people with whom I have worked in countries including Mexico, Guatemala, Nicaragua, and Tanzania. My service is through Fair Trade, direct trade, microfinance, cooperatives, local production and purchasing (when feasible), and similar tools. These tools give a "hand up" to our fellow human beings, not a "hand out."
