Julie Beutel & Bob O'Brien

at the Interfaith Center for Spiritual Growth and live on Zoom

Singer, song-leader, guitarist, teacher, activist & mother Julie Beutel is a native of the city of Detroit. She has lived and worked in several countries in Europe and Central America, including with Witness for Peace in Nicaragua during the war for almost 2 years. She taught music to children in Southwest Detroit while raising her own children.

Julie sings from the depths. She is not afraid to address painful, awkward, controversial or funny issues in the songs she sings. Her voice is beautiful and rich. Her performances are personal, intimate and fun. Julie has sung at coffeehouses, concerts, funerals, weddings, schools, and senior centers, as well as in jails, subway stations, soup kitchens, bars, and peace marches. Once she sang to a crowd of over 20,000 in DC (part of an anti-nuclear march). She also hosts and leads sacred singing/drumming circles in her home.

Bob O'Brien is a father and happily married to Alice Mason for over 25 years. He worked as a social worker at Southwest Solutions in Detroit for about as long; is recently retired and doing consulting work. Among his greatest joys is playing the guitar, and making music with others (such as Julie).
